

About Our Speaker

Dedication to Family and Community:

Leigh Castle is a loving husband and father of two small children. He is an award winning and dedicated middle school teacher and holds a Master's Degree in education.

When It Comes to Safety Experience Counts:

Leigh's prior background is unique for an educator. As a combat veteran in the US Army and an experienced dignitary protection specialist for the US Department of State, Leigh brings a diverse baseline of experience to the subject of personal protection. Leigh founded Castle Defensive Inc. with the sole mission of making top tier personal protection available to not just the elite but to everyday families like yours. He also lectures and advises various organizations, government agencies and businesses both large and small on subjects related to security and violence management.

Understanding Violence: What Every Parent Needs to Know

For decades, many Americans have avoided seriously examining violent behavior. The result is that news of violence creates fear, anxiety and feelings of helplessness in parents.

- Making sense of bullying
- The effects of violence on young people who experience it first and secondhand
- What parents should and should not do when trying to develop their kids' abilities to manage violent encounters
